Dear Susanne,

Following up our brief phone conversation, a short time ago, here's the link for the Legislative Correspondents Association, <http://lcapressroom.com/>, whose directory lists your phone number for Lisa Foderaro. As you are now covering Trump, the phone number should obviously be corrected with Ms. Foderaro's phone number. The present listing is as follows:

Lisa Foderaro

NY Times
LCA Pressroom, Capitol, Albany, NY 12224
www.nytimes.com
foderaro@nytimes.com
212-556-5137

Again, I thank you for having forwarded to Ms. Foderaro, my Friday's voice mail message about the Westchester county executive race and her September 21st article "In New York Suburbs, Plenty of Democrats – Just Not at the Top". I will call her at the phone number you gave me: 212-556-1659. Meantime, a propos of your current beat – reporting on Trump – may I suggest that you examine – and report on – what Trump did, in 2014, when, in the context of a possible run for New York governor, he had a perfect opportunity to "drain the swamp" of governmental corruption in his home state. Attached is my January 11, 2014 e-mail to his operatives entitled "Donald Trump Can Easily Defeat Andrew Cuomo, Eric Schneiderman -- & a 'Who's Who' of Public Official up for Re-Election -- Even Without Running for Governor". I sent it to them, repeatedly – and then to the leadership of the Republican and Conservative parties – and to then potential gubernatorial candidates Westchester County Executive Rob Astorino and Carl Paladino – as you can see from CJA's webpage pertaining to New York's 2014 electoral races: <http://www.judgewidth.org/web-pages/elections/2017/2014-astorino-repub-cons.htm>.

Such correspondence to Astorino, who is running on the Republican and Conservative lines for re-election as Westchester county executive is relevant to his contest against State Senator George Latimer, who has the Democratic, Working Families, Women's Equality, and Reform Party lines -- and is so-identified at page 7 of my attached August 10, 2017 OPEN LETTER chronicling Senator Latimer's facilitating role in the corruption that Astorino chose to cover-up in 2014. It is about that OPEN LETTER that I wish to speak with Ms. Foderaro -- & the webpage from which ALL its substantiating proof is posted or accessible, including my January 24, 2014 e-mail to Astorino, is here: <http://www.judgewidth.org/web-pages/elections/2017/8-10-17-open-ltr.htm>.

Thank you.
