

tar azette.

Courts suggest as much as 62 percent pay hike for N.Y. judges

Written by

Joseph Spector and Rebecca Baker

5:40 PM, Jul. 12, 2011|

ALBANY -- The state courts system is recommending that judges get a pay raise of up to 62 percent after having their pay frozen since 1999.

The recommendations come in a report this week from chief administrative judge Ann Pfau to the state Commission on Judicial Compensation, which is evaluating the pay for the state's roughly 1,300 judges.

State SupremeCourt judges receive a salary of $136,700, but Pfau recommended judges' salaries increase to as high as $220,836 to put them on par with other states, based on cost of living standards. She recommended a salary between $192,000 and $220,836.

Pfau called the recommendations "prudent and responsible." She said New York ranks last in the nation for judicial pay based on cost of living and 20th for actual salary.

"After such a lengthy pay freeze, the cost of the reform of past practices must not prevent this commission from fulfilling its urgent mandate to provide appropriate compensation to New York's judges," she wrote in the report.

The seven-member panel is expected to release its findings in late August. The commission's recommendations will automatically become law unless state lawmakers try to halt them.

Some Republican lawmakers questioned Pfau's recommendations, saying that while judges may deserve a pay raise it should be within reason.

"The range that Judge Pfau is suggesting seems very generous, especially with middle-class families that are struggling," said Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman John Bonacic, R-Mount Hope, Orange County.

Bonacic said he is hopeful that lawmakers, Gov. Andrew Cuomo and the judiciary can work with the commission to find common ground.

Advertisement

Protect Your Home
with ADT!

*Click Here
to Learn More!*

Print Powered By

Dynamics

BUY/SELL: JOBS CARS HOMES APARTMENTS DATING CLASSIFIEDS CELEBRATIONS DEALS PLACE AN AD SUBSCRIPTION SERVICES

News Sports Events Viewpoints Business Obituaries Life Social Help

Sign up Log in

FEATURED: Your Photos Proms Gas Prices Subscribe

Find what you are looking for ...

SEARCH

Catholic Charities of Tompkins/Tioga is searching for an EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
 Must have 5 years of managerial experience in human services and be able to manage diverse social service programs. Fund raising experience is a plus.
Click for more information and to apply now

ADVERTISEMENT

Comments for

Courts suggest as much as 62 percent pay hike for N.Y. judges

Add your comment

Guidelines: You share in the stargazette.com community, so please keep your comments smart and civil. Don't attack other readers personally, and keep your language decent. Use the "Report Abuse" link if a comment violates these standards or our terms of service.

Sign in or create your account to add a comment.

LOG IN or Register

14 comments

Sort: Oldest to Newest

-

cpars28
7:35 AM on July 13, 2011

Score: 3

Report Abuse

why do they deserve such a raise? If they dont like their pay do what the rest of us americans do: Go job hunting for a better job! I'm so tired of these "officials" that are suppose to uphold the law and represent us soaking US out of money and living posh lives! Its seriously a time for revolt and revolution!
-

edmundoneill
8:26 AM on July 13, 2011

Score: 1

Report Abuse

I could comment on this but it would violate TOS
-

crookedeye
8:58 AM on July 13, 2011

Score: 0

Report Abuse

Position Salary
 President
 1789 $25,000
 1873 $50,000
 1909 $75,000
 1949 $100,0001
 1969 $200,0001
 2001 $400,0001
 Vice President $230,7002
 Senator $174,000
 Representative $174,000
 Majority and Minority Leaders $193,400
 Speaker of the House $223,500
 Chief Justice, U.S. Supreme Court $223,500
 Assoc. Justice, U.S. Supreme Court $213,900

Read more: Salaries of the President, Vice President, and Other U.S. Officials — Infoplease.com <http://www.infoplease.com/ipa/A0875856.htm#ixzz1RzNvXj5j>

The article points out that current salaries show judges earn somewhere near

Mom Dilemma #36:

Your daughter insists on wearing her princess costume to the grocery store. Allow it or not?

moms

ADVERTISEMENT

pressconnects

Courts suggest as much as 62 percent pay increase for NY judges

Written by

Joseph Spector and Rebecca Baker

6:10 PM, Jul. 12, 2011|

ALBANY -- The state courts system is recommending that judges get a pay raise of up to 62 percent after having their pay frozen since 1999.

The recommendations come in a report this week from chief administrative judge Ann Pfau to the state Commission on Judicial Compensation, which is evaluating the pay for the state's roughly 1,300 judges.

State Supreme Court judges receive a salary of $136,700, but Pfau recommended judges' salaries increase to as high as $220,836 to put them on par with other states, based on cost of living standards. She recommended a salary between $192,000 and $220,836.

Pfau called the recommendations "prudent and responsible." She said New York ranks last in the nation for judicial pay based on cost of living and 20th for actual salary.

"After such a lengthy pay freeze, the cost of the reform of past practices must not prevent this commission from fulfilling its urgent mandate to provide appropriate compensation to New York's judges," she wrote in the report.

The seven-member panel is expected to release its findings in late August. The commission's recommendations will automatically become law unless state lawmakers try to halt them.

Some Republican lawmakers questioned Pfau's recommendations, saying that while judges may deserve a pay raise it should be within reason.

"The range that Judge Pfau is suggesting seems very generous, especially with middle-class families that are struggling," said Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman John Bonacic, R-Mount Hope, Orange County.

Bonacic said he is hopeful that lawmakers, Gov. Andrew Cuomo and the judiciary can work with the commission to find common ground.

Advertisement

Protect Your Home
with ADT!

Click Here
to Learn More!

Print Powered By

Dynamics

pressconnects

Pfau's report said the $136,700 salary was once on par with U.S. District Court salaries, but that no longer holds true. Federal judges have seen a 27.3 percent pay raise since 1999, to $174,000, while state judges have seen zero.

The commission was established last year to evaluate every four years how much the state judges should be paid. Judicial pay has traditionally been tied to salary increases for the state Legislature, which also hasn't had a raise above their $79,500 base salary since 1999.

Courts say they are dealing with a record number of cases, while state law bars them from hiring more judges. The number of criminal cases has stayed relatively flat since 1998, about 1.9 million a year, Gannett's Albany Bureau reported earlier this year. But the number of civil cases grew 35 percent between 1998 and 2010, from 1.3 million to 1.8 million.

To offset the lack of pay raises, New York judges receive $10,000 yearly expense allowances. The stipend was instituted in 2008 and doubled to $20,000 a year later, costing taxpayers about $12.4 million a year.

The courts have argued that it is hard to attract and retain qualified judges because of the pay scale.

But Assemblyman Sean Hanna, R-Mendon, Monroe County, said there are plenty of lawyers in upstate New York who want to serve as judges for the current pay.

"In upstate New York, when a judicial position opens there is a line wrapping around the block of very qualified attorneys chopping at the bit to be named to the position or elected to the position," Hanna, a lawyer who serves on the Assembly Judiciary Committee, said.

The request for pay raises comes months after the Office of Court Administration laid off more than 500 employees to save $170 million. It was forced to cut roughly 6 percent of its $2.7 billion budget this year because of the state's fiscal challenges.

The layoffs were part of the largest decrease in court services in nearly 20 years. The funding cut has already led courts to reduce services, including ending court sessions at 4:30 p.m. each day, reducing jury pools and eliminating judicial hearing officers to handle cases.

The state Civil Service Employees Association, whose membership was most affected by the layoffs, had no comment on Pfau's report.

Advertisement

Protect Your Home
with ADT!

[Click Here
to Learn More!](#)

ADT AUTHORIZED DEALER

Print Powered By

Dynamics

pressconnects

New York State Supreme Court Officers Association is supporting the move to pay judges more, but didn't offer a pay recommendation.

"They deserve a raise - they deserve a substantial raise," union President John Strandberg said. "If they gave them a 35 percent raise? I know the court employees' raises have not gone up 35 percent since 1999."

Get Listed Here

Ads by Pulse 360

New Policy in New York

Drivers with no DUIs may be eligible for $9 per week car insurance.

www.lifestylejournal.com

New York Refinance at 2.3%

$160,000 New York Mortgage $659/mo. 2.7% apr. Get a Free Quote!

Lendgo.com/mortgage

New York: Refinance Rates at 2.37%

$170,000 Mortgage for Only $661/mo. Get Free Quotes Now! 2.9%APR

www.QuotesHound.com

Advertisement

Protect Your Home
with ADT!

ADT AUTHORIZED DEALER

[Click Here
to Learn More!](#)

Print Powered By

Dynamics