New York Daily News: CITY DESK

As stated in my phone call to your TIPS-HOTLINE #212-210-6397, the Daily News has made the front-page of today's New York Law Journal, in an article entitled, "Judges Rebut Claims Made in Editorials".

According to the article, on Tuesday of this week,

"about 40 Brooklyn justices passed a resolution calling on both the state and city Supreme Court justices' associations to ask Chief Judge Kaye to publically (sic) rebut many of the contentions made in a series of four editorials, called 'Judging the Judges,' published by the News since Nov. 26."

The Law Journal article cites Chief Judge Kaye's press spokesman, David Bookstaver, as saying that Chief Judge Kaye's "voice will absolutely be heard at the appropriate time in the near future" – and that the Chief Judge is "extremely concerned about the integrity of the court system and the public's trust and confidence in that system."

The Daily News should follow up with an expose about this supposed "concern" of Chief Judge Kaye – by interviewing members of the public who, to no avail, have brought to her EVIDENCE (not statistics) of corruption within the judiciary, including the corruption of the key judicial oversight monitor: the New York State Commission on Judicial Conduct. Indeed, our non-partisan, non-profit citizens' organization has a wealth of PRIMARY SOURCE MATERIALS relating to Chief Judge Kaye's official misconduct in deliberately violating her duty to ensure "the integrity of the court system" – and her wilful cover-up of systemic judicial corruption involving the Commission on Judicial Conduct. This may be gleaned from my letter to the editor, "Judicial Reforms", featured on the Daily News' December 7th editorial page. [The unedited original was even more direct as to Chief Judge Kaye.]

For your convenience, a copy of that December 7th letter to the editor is enclosed, along with today's New York Law Journal article. Please call for further details on this most important, time-sensitive story.
