This follows up the three phone messages I left on your voice mail (202-334-7582): on Thursday, April 22nd (9:05 a.m.); on Friday, April 23rd (12:55 p.m.); and on Monday April 26th (11:25 a.m.), requesting to speak with you about the two distorted, slanted articles which Henri Cauvin had written about me and my trial in D.C. Superior Court for "disruption of Congress". [Conduct Trial Gets Off to a Rough Start" (April 15th) and Activist Convicted of Disrupting Senate Committee" (April 21st)].

Inasmuch as your recorded voice mail greeting did not indicate that you were away on vacation or out sick, I can only assume that readers of the Washington Post have so many complaints that you are simply inundated and have yet to reach mine in the sequence in which it was received. I would, however, be most appreciative if you would e-mail me an estimate as to when I might expect your call -- and whether, as yet, you have had occasion to read the documents at the top of the homepage of the website of our non-partisan, non-profit citizens' organization, www.judgewatch.org, to which I specifically referred you in my messages, to wit, my aborted April 14th "opening statement" -- described by Mr. Cauvin's April 15th article as "rambling" -- and my June 16, 2003 memo to Ralph Nader, Public Citizen, and Common Cause -- three copies of which I gave Mr. Cauvin, including two, directly in hand -- and whose serious content as to the transcending significance of the "disruption of Congress" case he not only omitted from his reporting, but -- as it relates to the Senate Judiciary Committee -- outrightly concealed.

Thank you.
