Dear Ms. Spatz:

Correct me if I am wrong but I have yet to receive a single piece of correspondence under your signature in spite of having written numerous letters, faxes and emails to you since 2003. I note the exception of the short note from your Deputy Carol Hamm after discounting my complaint reported in May of 2003 when Ms. Hamm told me in person that "everyone lies" after cutting me off and waving my explanations away.

I am frankly shocked that there must be so much corruption in the court system that other cases have engulfed your time and attention and therefore your investigation into wrongdoing in my case has gone begging. There is so much corruption that institutional corruption based on deception, manipulation and extrinsic fraud gets a pass.

The more time and rope you give to unethical and arrogant judges, the more emboldened they become and the greater license they take to abuse the litigants. What signal do you think Judge Panepinto got from you when no action was taken on my complaints in 2003? I would think for a corrupt judge, it would mean a green light. Just when are you planning to lower the boom on the fraud taking place in the Richmond County courts and the judges who have participated in the extrinsic fraud and cover up in my case?

Judge Panepinto was asked to make a decision on immediate transfer of my case in my papers on May 22, 2006. She heard oral argument on June 5. It is now four weeks later and still no decision.

Judge Panepinto began her vacation today and will return on July 10.

I am sick and tired of this degrading and passive aggressive and arrogant treatment I have received from the courts.

Please know that I hold you personally responsible for the ongoing refusal to conduct a serious investigation, for the docility and passivity with which my complaints have been handled. I must single you out because you have been delegated to receive all correspondence. You know what the problem is. How much longer must you insulate everyone else in the chain of command who has chosen to look the other way and to wash their hands of this systemic corruption in my case? Meanwhile the judges at work committing fraud on the court are at liberty to plot and plan and solidify their judicial ambitions and they all manage to get themselves additional ten year stints on their respective benches with the help of the Mayor's Commission and based on input from a cowardly private bar that will almost never tell the truth to a blue ribbon commission or bar committee evaluating candidates, the likes of Judge Sunshine, Judge McElrath and Judge Panepinto. And then there is Judge Panepinto's aspirations to become Surrogate someday after her shoe in to another term on the Civil Court with her cross endorsements from the Democrats, the Republicans and the Conservatives, if she can stall long enough and avoid the notoriety of my case until November.

The truth matters. Mothers matter. Children matter. Justice matters.

Sincerely,

Nora Renzulli
