Elena,

I won't have time for a phone conversation today—my day is completely booked. I'll write something a bit longer tomorrow. In the meantime, note that neither the Campbell Institute nor the Campbell Conversations are news outlets—the former is an academic unit, and the latter is a public affairs discussion program, both non-partisan. The news director for WRVO is Jason Smith, and you can find his contact information on WRVO's webpage.

It does seem from what you've attached in your long email string that you are advocating against two Republican candidates, and pushing a story that originated with one those candidate's opponents. That is why it appears to be partisan activity.

--Best, Grant

Dear Professor Reeher,

I don't understand what you have written. I'm turning to you for help in securing investigation and reporting of EVIDENCE of public corruption by public officers running for re-election and election, which additionally tests the fitness of competing candidates of different parties. What is partisan about that? How are voters supposed to intelligently cast their ballots, if not alerted to the kind of EVIDENCE posted on CJA's 2019 Election webpages for Fitzpatrick and Antonacci: <http://www.judgewatch.org/web-pages/elections/2019/menu.htm>. Have you examined the press reporting, to date, of the Onondaga County D.A. race – and of the Fifth Judicial District Supreme Court races – such as posted on those webpages? Do you think it actually equips voters?

Please call me tomorrow to discuss. Time is of the essence.

Thank you.
