Dear Doris:

As promised, we have reviewed your materials regarding the nomination of Andrew O'Rourke to the Federal bench. While judicial selection is of the utmost concern to us, we are unable to get involved in individual nominations. We have also considered the possibility of a submission for Judicature based on these materials and have concluded that they are too narrowly focused on a single nomination to be appropriate for our readers.

We might suggest that the New York Law Journal or the journals of one or more of the New York bar associations may be appropriate venues for disseminating this information. We wish you good luck in getting your story heard and appreciate your interest in the selection of qualified judges.

Sincerely yours,
