Ms. Sassower:

I wanted to follow up our conversation and your letter. Unfortunately, as I explained, we do not have the resources to help with every matter that comes to our attention. Thanks for raising the issue, and best of luck to you.

Linda

"Pro Bono's New Frontier" – American Lawyer Magazine

Appleseed is a network of public interest law Centers working to identify and address injustices in their communities. Appleseed works to build a just society through education, legal advocacy, community activism and policy expertise, addressing root causes and producing practical solutions. As one of the nation's largest legal pro bono networks, Appleseed Centers work both independently and collectively, bringing their own experiences to create local solutions that are nationally relevant. We connect the top private practice lawyers, corporate counsel, law schools, civil leaders, and other professionals to tackle problems locally, at their root cause.
