Elena,

I'm copying Jon Glass and Greg Munno on this email. They both lead reporting efforts by students at Newhouse.

I'm listed as a political journalism point person on the site because I worked at the White House for a few years.

On the Syracuse University Newhouse School's "Experts List": <https://newhouse.syr.edu/news-events/experts-list>, you are the sole expert listed for "Political Journalism".

Where can I find political journalists to investigate and report on important electoral races in Syracuse University's own backyard: (1) for Onondaga County district attorney, involving incumbent D.A. William Fitzpatrick; and (2) for Supreme Court justices for the Fifth Judicial District, which includes Onondaga County, involving former Onondaga County comptroller-turned state senator Robert Antonacci. To date, there has been virtually NO reporting that would enable voters to make informed electoral decisions. How about your political journalism students? Are they available?

To enable you to easily evaluate the situation, I've created webpages summarizing the far-reaching public corruption issues of which voters must be made aware – and laying out the readily-verifiable, prima facie EVIDENCE. Here is the link to the MENU webpage for those two races: <http://www.judgewatch.org/web-pages/elections/2019/menu.htm> – also containing a link to my press and other outreach.

Please let me hear from you, as soon as possible. In light of this year's early voting, time is especially short.

Thank you.
