

Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)

---

From: Gregory James Munno <gjmunno@syr.edu>
Sent: Wednesday, October 16, 2019 9:19 PM
To: Michael D Davis; Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)
Cc: Jonathan Neal Glass
Subject: Re: Where are the political journalists who will investigate & report on the Onondaga County D.A. and Supreme Court justice races -- & what about Newhouse students interested in political journalism?

Thank you for note the Elena. I will give your website a closer look-- clearly you research an important area.

It would be a tall order for a student reporter to tackle something like this in the time before the election, and the students we work with in classes aren't necessarily tied to publication outlets. I assume you have already reached out to Syracuse.com/The Post-Standard? There are still some good reporters there.

Thanks again,
Greg Munno

---

From: Michael D Davis
Sent: Wednesday, October 16, 2019 3:20:44 PM
To: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)
Cc: Jonathan Neal Glass; Gregory James Munno
Subject: Re: Where are the political journalists who will investigate & report on the Onondaga County D.A. and Supreme Court justice races -- & what about Newhouse students interested in political journalism?

Elena,

I'm copying Jon Glass and Greg Munno on this email. They both lead reporting efforts by students at Newhouse.

I'm listed as a political journalism point person on the site because I worked at the White House for a few years.

Mike

On Oct 16, 2019, at 11:53 AM, Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) <elena@judgewatch.org> wrote:

TO: Professor Mike Davis – Newhouse School for Public Communications/Syracuse University

On the Syracuse University Newhouse School's "Experts List": <https://newhouse.syr.edu/news-events/experts-list>, you are the sole expert listed for "Political Journalism".

Where can I find political journalists to investigate and report on important electoral races in Syracuse University's own backyard: (1) for Onondaga County district attorney, involving incumbent D.A. William Fitzpatrick; and (2) for Supreme Court justices for the Fifth Judicial District, which includes Onondaga County, involving former Onondaga County comptroller-turned state senator Robert Antonacci. To date, there has been virtually NO reporting that would enable voters to make informed electoral decisions. How about your political journalism students? Are they available?