Dear Mr. Doty & Jeff
Received your very nice package last week & takes the two round balls, skin on surface which someone who had a good memory said you peel off and eat what is on the inside. He said you call them oranges sounds familiar.

Of course I ate them but after going out window shopping & seeing a price of six shillings, six pence for one medium size peach (one dollar & thirty cents paid) I don't know whether you wanted me to eat those oranges or used them as bait & send you the deed to some point.

When I have our future figured out we are planting two peach trees & live on their income.

But, honestly things aren't that bad for the American soldiers here, we get oranges once in a while, & piece four times a week chicken every Sunday, in fact the cream of the crops from the states, as there is no worry, we get plenty, but these cooks in this company are out of this world, in fact if they keep on cooking like this most of the company will be out of this world, the other company (B) had much better cooks but most of the fellows didn't appreciate them, of course it took them ten months to learn to cook, but they learnt, at our stomachs expense, the cooks in this company need another ten months.

England.
